UNREACHED PEOPLES IN KENTUCKY

64,764 South Asians in Kentucky need the Lord

Some of the least reached people groups in the world are now living in Kentucky. Among them are the South Asian people whose population in the state has grown by 84.6% in the past 10 years. The majority of people from India practice Hinduism and are lost to the true saving grace of Jesus Christ. Please pray:

- Christians will respond to God's call to share the gospel and the love of Christ with them.
- Churches in Kentucky will form prayer teams to intercede for their neighbors from India, asking that their hearts and minds be receptive to the gospel.
- Pray for churches to be started in Fayette, Jefferson, and Warren counties where fast-growing populations of South Asian peoples live.
- For God to open doors among the other unreached people groups in Kentucky communities.
